

Communication Literacy

We are learning to...

Read like a geographer

- We interpret data and graphs carefully, inferring meaning from them.
- We read case studies to understand how our learning relates to real life.
- We read to improve our geographical knowledge.

Write like a geographer

We know how to write for different purposes and audiences such as:

- Composing factual information;
- Report and investigations to present our findings and case studies
- Present an argument and analyse viewpoints

We edit our writing to be clearly presented to our readers.

We are careful with SPaG for our readers.

Speak like a geographer

We communicate clearly, using precise geographical language.

Geography

Word list

Geographical words

residential	shopping centre	demolition	spatial high density	new development	community	deprivation low density	high street shops	skateboard park	gentrification dwellings	designer shopping	village	ethnic (segregation) semi detached	specialist shops	estate	brownfield site detached	leisure facilities	inner city	land use terraced	rural community	industrialised	function mansion	waste ground	deindustrialised	rural urban fringe bungalow	derelict	green field site	formal or informal flat	multicultural	sustainable	brownfield site cottage	small shopping centre	unsustainable	conservation maisonette	green space	eco footprint	Central Business District townhouse	accessible community facilities	traffic management	recreation commercial	residential	historical environment industrial	redevelopment	natural environment

Extending vocabulary

conurbation	restaurants	adventure	scheme excellent	boundary	playground	issues transport	award winning	contemporary	housing needs links	popular	sleek	development motorways	visitor attraction	traditional	quality metrolink	derelict	modern	opinion heart	thriving	pleasant landscape	retail urban	market town	corner shop	leisure protected	blend	cosmopolitan	three storey green belt	municipal	futuristic	two storey significant	towering	thriving heart	tower blocks bustling	countryside	vibrant	offices special landscape value	predominantly	growing reputation	factory resident population	multicultural	edge of	decay revitalised	great mix of	hub	degradation

David Harvey has authored many books and essays that have had a noticeable impact on the study of modern geography. Some of the topics he's covered include the idea of social justice in the city, and how geography cannot remain objective in the face of urban poverty and associated ills.

Communication Literacy

Words that help us communicate like a geographer